Furthermore, the objectives of the academic subjects will be combined with the arts of drama, dance, music, and visual arts. Through dance, students may closely examine lines of poetry by connecting movements to help deepen their comprehension. Through music, students may write their own lyrics centered on a Civil War objective to sing to a familiar tune. This activity will strengthen their understanding of the concept while giving the students a creative way to remember key information. Researchers have found that by combining learning through the arts, students are much more engaged in the lessons and show growth in the subject areas.

After reading and initialing each section of the attached information about our classroom management system, please sign the acknowledgement section and return it with your student by Wednesday, August 21, 2019. By all means, please discuss each of the items with your fourth grader to help ensure that he/she is fully aware of what he/she is expected to do as a student this year. An electronic copy of the classroom management system will be posted on my East Aiken School of the Arts webpage.
